BACKGROUND

Nagpur University was established on 4 August 1923 under Central Provinces Act of 1923. Rai Bahadur Bipin Krishna Bose was appointed as its first Vice Chancellor. Faculties and Boards of Studies were created and first Convocation of the University was held on 28 November 1924. The University started with 61 affiliated colleges from Jabalpur, Nagpur and Amravati and 927 students. Jabalpur, being a constituent part of its jurisdiction, was later included in Madhya Pradesh. During 1947, the number of students increased to about 9000, accompanied by the improvement and diversification of curricula and expansion in the range of subjects. The expansion of library and sports facilities occurred during these years for the intellectual and physical well being of the students. It was in 1958 that some new departments in Arts and Social Sciences faculties were opened; the major expansion, however, came in 1963 when several science and other departments were started. These departments were shifted to spacious buildings in the main campus in 1973.

University Jurisdiction: The jurisdiction of Nagpur University was then restricted to eight districts of Vidarbha. Subsequently, Punjabrao Deshmukh Krishi Vidyapeeth, an Agricultural University, was established in 1972 and 3 Agricultural colleges under jurisdiction of the university were affiliated to it. In 1983 a separate University for West Vidarbha was established at Amravati. During the period of eight decades of its existence the university has undergone fragmentation from time to time in terms of developments such as creation of Agricultural University (Punjabrao Deshmukh Krishi Vidyapeeth), Amravati University and Health Sciences University. Before the separation, Nagpur University had 142 affiliated colleges with 66,140 students. In 1983-84, after the establishment of Amravati University, the jurisdiction of Nagpur University was further restricted to 6 districts of East Vidarbha viz. Wardha, Nagpur, Chandrapur, Gadchiroli, Bhandara and Gondia and had 89 affiliated colleges with 45,299 students. Meanwhile, Maharashtra University of Health Sciences was established at Nashik and 12 colleges of health sciences from Nagpur University were affiliated to it. In UG courses. Nagpur University was renamed as Rashtrasant Tukadoji Maharaj Nagpur University in 2000. However, 85 years old University has occupied 327.57 acres of land with jurisdiction of six districts of Western Region (Nagpur, Chandrapur, Gadchiroli, Bhandara and Gondia), 167 buildings, 181044 students
